You've blocked me on Insta as well. It's ok. I'm not gonna cry or be sad about it. Two things I trust you that you still have feelings for me and that we have more things you are unable to share it with me, may be you are afraid to hurt me. But love is blue & people not devices, you can block me from every platform on earth but that doesn't mean we don't have any connection. To look that connection you have to block me from your heart if you are able to do that then there is no means for me to contact you. I'll keep my head straight and put in my efforts by all means in vain then no problem. Coz I'll continue to try & fail or succeed than to just give up. Also if you've blocked me cuz I'm hurting you and you've decided not to talk with me ever again then I'll not disturb you for a while I shall stop there letter for now. Love you

- I guess the way I've behaved with you is not very easy things to forgive, I should hit leave hit that tree in the roadside, Also now relatives incident where God only know Truong to feel how sad, I'm sorry, I'll never do that ever again in my life. I promise. After doing all these things also I don't expect you to forgive me. I'll try to find a way to show you what I've adapted and corrected in myself. I'll try to find a way to show you that you can trust me. You think that I can't handle high pressure situations so let me handle few of more so you can trust me again. If that doesn't work I'll try to find another way. I just can't give up - Cool.
